

UNIVERSITY OF SONORA
Central Region Unit
School of Economic and Administrative Sciences
Department of Economy
Degree in Business and International Commerce

Identification Data

Subject: Environmental Regulation	Formative pillars: Specialized
Teaching-learning process: Course	Pre-requirement: None
Class hours: 4 (4t)	Post-requirement: None
Nature of the subject: Specialized elective	Credit Value: 6

General objective

The intention is to give students ample knowledge within the field of ecological and environmental law, as well as the connection with environmental international treaties, creating awareness in the students in regards to current relevance of this subject in the business environment.

Proficiency Units

CHAPTER I

MANKIND AND HIS ENVIRONMENT

- 1.- Importance of the Environment
- 2.- Relationship between the economy and the Environment.
- 3.- Impact of human development on the environment.
- 4.- Ecological Development and its Fundamental Concepts.

CHAPTER II

NATIONAL LEGISLATION IN ECOLOGICAL AND ENVIRONMENTAL MATTERS

- 1.- Political Constitution
- 2.- Applicable Laws
- 3.- Application environments: Federal, State and Local
- 4.- Legal responsibility of environmental crimes

CHAPTER III

INTERNATIONAL ENVIRONMENTAL LAW

- 1.- Second conference on the environment and development held in Rio de Janeiro in 1992.
- 2.- Key points about the Kyoto Protocol in environmental matters.
- 3.- Environmental cooperation treaty of the North American Free trade Agreement (TLCAN, by its acronym in Spanish).

- 4.- UN Conference on the Environment, Stockholm 1972.
5.- Environment and Human Rights.

Teaching Strategies

Oral presentations Interviews to specialists Group discussions Mandatory reading Research works Conceptual maps

Evaluation and accreditation criteria

- The average of three partial exams: 45%
 - Final project: 25%
- Individual and group project presentations: 30%

Bibliography and other teaching-learning resources

ARANA, FEDERICO, ECOLOGÍA PARA PRINCIPIANTES, 1990, 1ª. Ed., Trillas, México.

CARMONA, María del Carmen, Derecho Ecológico, Ed., IJ UNAM, México.

Profile of Professor responsible of teaching the subject.

Bachelor's Degree in Law, International Commerce or related major, preferably with a Master's Degree.

Professional experience in international business.

Two year minimum of teaching experience

Academic and teaching-learning formation:

Facility in the performance of the teacher-learning process.

Facility in group and individual communication with students.

Ability to use technology and teaching-learning techniques (computer, image projection, projectors, overhead slides, slides, videos, etc.)